

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides a recombinant microorganism obtained by transferring, into a host microorganism which is capable of producing protein or polypeptide with increased productivity and which was identified by the present inventors, a gene encoding a protein or polypeptide, and a method for producing a protein or polypeptide by use of the recombinant microorganism.